Presented in the following order:
MONDAY, DEC. 25,
IL TROVATORE,
Verdi's magnificent production, over the performance of which the Baltimore papers were perfectly ecstatic on the 20th inst., the day after its grand rendition in that city by this company.

TUESDAY, 26, Petrella's charming Opera, one of the earliest and most unequivocal successes of the late great season in New York. Replete with sweet melodies, grand choruses, and most enchanting situations, not unlike in its instrumentation and general ensemble, Flotow's much admired "Martha."

WEDNESDAY, 27, Gounce's chefd'owere. Its first Italian rendition in Washington. It will be remembered that the Mr. Maretzek's direction last season upwards of sixty consecutive nights to overflowing houses, and it has formed one of the principal features of the late season at the Academy of Music.

All the Costumes, Properties and Incidentals to the misc en scene of this wonderful Opera, which were prepared at an enormous cost for its production this season, at the Academy of Music, New York, will be brought to this city.

Mr Strong, the able scenic artist of this theater, has visited New York, and procured the original medels of scenery and mechanical intricacies of this grand Opera, and the management congratulate themselves upon being able to promise the entire Opera, notwithstanding it was supposed by Mr. Maretzek, when first producting it, that after leaving the New York Academy, the complicated scenes would have to be omitted. The excellent resources of this establishment have obviated that necessity, and the citizens of Washington may rest delightfully assured that they will witness the SECOND ENTIRE PRODUCTION in America of Marethers's reset mester viscon.

IN THE HOUSE—

Mr. Smith offered a resolution to admit,
James M. Johnson, of Arkansas, to the privileges of the floor, pending his claim as a member.

Mr. Stevens would not object if the gentle-man would amend so as to leave out that part which claimed Mr. Johnson as a member of the House. The resolution caused some discussion, and objection having been made to it, Mr. Smith withdrew it. Mr. Kerr introduced a bill for the relief of

Mr. Kerr introduced a bill for the relief of loyal part owners of captured personal property, which was referred.

Mr. O'Neil presented a bill for the payment of the one hundred dollars bounty, act July 22, 1861, to the legal representatives of the men who enlisted that year, who had left their commands without leave, but subsequently returned and were killed in battle. Referred to Committee on Military Affairs.

Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. Ingersoil offered a resolution appointing a committee to inquire into the circumstances of the families left by the men killed by the explosion at the arsenal, with a view to their relief by the Government.

The House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, Mr. Boutwell in the Chair, and took up the annual message of the President. Remarks were made by Mr. Finck of Ohio, Mr. Raymond, Mr. Kelly, and Mr. Jenckes, of Rhode Island. The committee rose and resolutions possed referring the message to the proper committees.

Mr. Banks, from the Committee on Foreign Mr. Banks, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a resolution accepting the invitation of France, to be represented at the Paris Exposition; approving what had been done by the Secretary of State, and providing for the appointment of clerks in connection with the commission. Passed.

Mr. Myres introduced a bill appropriating sight hundred thousand dellars to pay soldiers.

eight hundred thousand dollars to pay soldiers called out by the State of Pennsylvania, in 1863, to repel invasion. Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. Schenk moved to reconsider the reference, that it might be assigned to the Commit tee on Claims.

Pending this question the House adjourned over until the 5th of January, 1866.

Suffrage in the District.

The following is the minority report made in the House of Representatives by Mr. Rogers, of the Judiciary Committee, on the bill entitled "A Bill extending the right of Suffrage in the District of Columbia." The minority report is made for the following reasons:

made for the following reasons:

There is no more reason now existing that the right of suffrage should be exercised by the negroes of this District than before the war. The men who made the Constitution of the United States did not intend this Government for the benefit of the negro race, but made it for the benefit of white men and women and their posterity forever. The Declaration of Independence was made and the revolutionary war fought for the liberties of the white race. No party as yet has advocated negro suffrage in any presidential election, nor made it an issue in any State or congressional election, until in any State or congressional election, until since the rebellion. In fact, it had become a settled notion of the people, firmly established in their minds by long experience, that the negro race were not sufficiently intelligent to exercise the right of suffrage, and they have exercise the right of suffrage, and they have not been allowed that right since the formation of the Government, except in a few States where they have been permitted to vote upon property qualifications not applied to the white race. It is degrading the people and the Dis-trict to permit a class of poor weak-minded negroes who have no idea of government, many of whom have just emerged from a state of slavery, to exercise the highest political privilege given to man upon earth—to wit, the privilege given to man upon earth-to wit, the elective franchise. The people of this country are opposed to negrosuffrage, and have refused to allow it in the States where it has been made an issue.

It can be said, without the fear of contradic-Union, except one, that would sanction negro suffrage were the question to be submitted to the people. Even the people of Connecticut, by a large majority, refused it, and the repub-lican party, in all the States except four, where an election was held last fall, declared and proclaimed, through the press and public speakers, their opposition to negro suffrage; and in the four States where that question was an issue, negro suffrage was largely defeated, an issue, negro suffrage was largely defeated, although the republican ticket was elected. Why should Congress force negro suffrage upon the people of the District, when the people whom they represent have repudiated it in the States? The bill reported by the majority of the committee will, if it becomes a law, not only allow the negroes to vote for all officers in the District, but allow a negro to hold and be elected to any office in the District. By striking out the word "white," colored, people become citizens of the District, with all the political rights of any white citizen of the District. It would place the negro population upon the same political basis as the whites, and would soon result in the election of a negro for mayor of the sult in the election of a negro for mayor of the city, as it is but reasonable to presume that there would soon be such an influx of negroes there would soon be such an influx of negroes into the District as to give them the majority. The "African race" in this country gained more by the result of the war than any other people. By it they were freed from slavery, and with that freedom they ought to be content. The wiscoin of more than nive thousand years has that freedom they ought to be content. The wiscoin of more hann rive thousand years has refused to allow the political equality of the negro race as exercised by the white; and no not civilized people of any country have allowed universal suffrage to the negro throughout their governments. If this bill becomes a law it will be but the entering wedge to negro suffrage and equality all over this land.

This question of negro suffrage and political equality in the District ought to be submitted to a vote of the legal voters of the District. We ought not to make a change in the political status of the people of the District without submitting it to them for their rejection or approval. The government of the city is for the benefit and protection of its citizens, and they ought to be consulted, and in no case should so radical a change be made without their consent. To allow the negroes to vote and hold office in the District will be dangerous, and shake, if not destroy, law and order in the District, as the white people cannot be expected to quietly submit to it.

A Republican Opinion of Bowen. The following severe strictures upon the man Bowen are written by one of the most decided. honest and uncompromising Republicans of this District or in the country—an anti-slavery man from the start:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1865.—To the Editor of the Evening Star: In the Chronicle of the 18th instant appears an article from S. J. Bowen, postmaster of Washington, police commis-sioner, member of the Levy Court, &c., and formerly "as clerk in the Senate he received between two and three thousand dollars, and between two and three thousand dollars, and as collector of internal revenue about four thousand dollars—about six thousand dollars yearly from the Government." "And this cormorant," continues Mr. Peugh, "was continually grasping for office." As a resident of Washington for a much longer period than Mr. Bowen, and as an original anti-slavery man, while this same Mr. Bowen was a servile tool in the ranks of the unterrified democracy, I claim a hearing upon the subject of his bombastic proclamation. I am in favor of negro suffrage on precisely the same terms as white suffrage, and have always been so. But I protest against any such wholesale falsehoods and denunciations of the people here as Mr. Bowen sees fit to print. The colored people and their cause are injured beyond measure when passionate utterances not true are uttered professedly in their behalf. In noble contrast to this new born zeal of Postmaster Bowen, was the calm, dispassionate, and logical article from the pen of John Francis Cook, which appeared in the Chronicle recently. The latter did good. The former did evil only. The colored people will live here, will do inciners here, and will still mingle with the white people here, and no honest man will wish to bolster himself before the community with false statements, for the sole purpose of replenishing his stock of Federal parronage, or of inflating his ambitious aspirations for popularity among the (soon to be) enfranchised colored people here. But kenever will be Mayer. It is but truth to say that many of the people here who are opposed to negro suffrage, are as collector of internal revenue about four much more patriotic than Mr. Bowen, are much more honest than he is, and have a much higher regard for truth and justice. Many of them wore the Federal uniforms in the camp on the march, while this comment was receiving nearly five hundred dollars per month for less labor than the lowest class Government clerk performs. What are the colored people to gain by his wholesale impeachment of the assessors! What has this old-line Democrat done to help the colored people, except to grap every office, small and large, that he could possibly reach!

This fling at the dereliction of the city of Washington in not paying the money set apart by Congress for colored schools comes with bad grace from a man whose official imbedlity and reglect of duty has quite as much to do with the matter as the city of Washington. Why did he not ask for this money for colored schools last winter! Until within a few months past he has not shown even an ordinary interest in the colored schools of this city, and yet he has insisted en helding a position which ought to have been filled by men who would have done their duty to the colored school interest. This apparent zeal is a bad offset to three years of neglect of official duty. But the colored mea are soon to rote. He claims to have the ear and confidence of Secretary Harian, and has boasted of being his "confidential adviser!" But the Secretary of Interior will find out that this Tarisr is an insolent, domineering chip of the old Democratic party—telling the truth when it suits his convenience, and generally an arbitrary and tyrannical man. I assure you that the colored people. The friends of the colored man have the bower teamake laws and the overned by no motive but the good of the colored people. The friends of the colored man have the power to make laws, and they do not need, neither do they desire to recort to denunciation, to falsehood, nor to slander, to gain their object. If any man has other ends to gain than the good of the cause, don't let him abuse the cause of the colored man to accomplish them. REPUBLICAN.

The Chair was authorized to name the citizens to fill the blank in the commission, and named Messrs. Mitchell and Edes. named Messrs. Mitchell and Edes.

Mr. Thomas hoped the resolution would not be passed till after the election next week.

Mr. Mitchell expressed his willingness to postpone the subject, as two or three days' very hard work had unfitted him to explain the subject as he wished. He would say, however, that a close examination of the views of all the citizens of the town with whom he had conversed with exhibited a tone of feeling decidedly in favor of the proposition. He thought the prosperity of Georgetown would be favored greatly by such a connection, and it would be better to have also the consolidation of the two cities and the county if possible. Mr. M. alluded to the antagonism between the two corporations and the levy court, and remarked that as long as it existed the natural advantages of Georgetown would suffer. Some objected that the post office will be taken away. But what of that if its place is supplied by the advantages in Washington for the delivery of the of Georgetown would suffer. mails. Others object that the custom house will be removed. Mr. M. would only say that the custom house will follow commerce not commerce the custom house.

Mr. M. alluded to the advantages likely to be derived from the establishment of the railroads, and saw no reason why Georgetown might not share them with her neighbor. The community of interest is what we desire, and it will add to the prosperity of the entire District. The loss of the coal trade is objected to. Mr. M. thought the community of interest would be most likely to keep it where it is. He could not see how the trade could be diverted if a community of interest existed. There is less of antagonism now between the First Ward of Washington and this city than between the First and Sixth Wards of that city. The Board of Trade, representing twenty-five millions of property, have endorsed the proposition. If this resolution is passed, and the commissioners meet and consult, facts and ideas will be developed and explained which Mr. M. considered himself anable to do.

The resolution was laid over, to be called up at discretion.

The resolution was laid over, to be called up Mr. Fowler, from the streets committee ported back a number of bills referred to that committee, and, on his motion, they were re-ferred to the Aldermen.

The board then adjourned.
